Should be a reliable and "easy to see platform" exclusively for students that provides peace of mind

Finding a safe and nearby place to rest between classes would improve academic performance and well being

Should be a reliable and "easy to see platform" exclusively for students that provides peace of mind

Renting rooms quickly and flexibly
is more practical than paying full rent or commuting
long distances

Sees that common spaces on campus are overcrowded and not suitable for resting.

Notices that traditional renting options exist but don't fit short periods (hours or days)

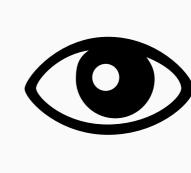

Observes that apps like Airbnb are too general and not adapted to student needs

Sees insecurity or lack of trust in offers found on social media or WhatsApp groups.

Thinks

Feels

Sees

Stress about not finding a safe and reliable place to rest or study in private

Insecure about the informality of current options

Does

Searches for options in student Facebook, WhatsApp, or Telegram groups

Tries to rest in cafeterias, libraries, or empty classrooms, even if they're uncomfortable

Feel tired due to academic workload and long hours on campus

Hopeful and motivated by the idea of a digital solution designed just to rest

Asks friends or classmates if they rent rooms near campus

Sometimes
pays extra transportation to go home and return, even if it's inefficient